

For example, create a Flask app with a `temperature` route that calls the OpenWeather API and displays different text depending on the temperature.